Union Seniors Present Plays

Two Performances
Attended By Crowd

Comparable to a "gala premiere" was the performance of the Senior class plays by the Seniors of Union high school, Friday evening in the school auditorium.

A packed house was noted when the curtain went up at 8:15 o'clock, the lights dimmed and the first act of "We Shook the Family Tree" was on. The three-act play was dramatized by Perry Clark from the book by Hildegarde Dolsen.

But there was more in store for the audience when the curtain fell on Act III. It rose again, and this time on a rollicking farce, "Thursday's at Home," by Mae Howley Barry.

It would be difficult to point to a particular performance by the students and say—well done. By now the students at Union high master the art of characterization like veterans. All parts were very well enacted, convincing, their role adding immensely to the splendid evening of entertainment.

Even the funny pantomiming of Don Bacon added to his fine role, and the leading roles by Phyllis Phillips and Charles Kelso, were excellent.

Both of the plays added to an evening of merriment and fun. It was comedy at a great peak. It was two hours' worth anybody's time, and many took advantage of it.

Director Gets Gift
During the intermission, Mrs. Helen King, director of the plays, was presented with a lovely gift in behalf of the casts of the two plays, Philip Maronde, president of the Union high Senior class made the presentation.

Music prior to the performance and between acts was provided by the Union high band, under the direction of James W. James.

Casts of Plays
The casts of the plays who rehearsed often, and who are due much credit for an enjoyable performance include:

The cast of "We Shook the Family Tree" consisted of Hildegarde, who is tired of being a wallflower, portrayed by Phyllis Phillips; Mr. Dolson, her father, portrayed by Philip Morandi; Mrs. Dolson, the mother, is Jackie Funkhouser; Sally, the younger sister, Peggy Hanna; Bob, the older brother, Ken McPheters; Jimmy, the younger brother, Don Bacon; Paige, the mother, Duda; Ellie May, Bob's sweetheart, is portrayed by Wanda White; Jill, a friend, Dorothy Genova; Freddie Shermer, the "knicker" boy, Chuck Kelso; Mr. Shermer, portrayed by Ronnie Wolfbrandt, while Mrs. Shermer is played by Joanne Johnston. The time is the present.

Members of the cast in the play "Thursday's at Home" are as follows: Maybelle Larkins, played by Sally Lou Apple; Sarah, the housekeeper, is played by Marlene Valiensi; Jane Post, the sister, Regina Poling; Prudence Pearce, the book agent, is played by Martha Meyers; Mrs. Meltz, a vendor of wax flowers, is played by Jeanne Petrella; Hilda Dumper is played by Joanne Miller; Henrietta Strate is portrayed by Donna Jean Mohr; Rhea Bates' part is taken by Mary Catherine Callahan; Vera Ketchum is a part played by Rosemarie Mulcahy.

of the Neshannock township schools and soprano soloist at the Second U.P. church; Miss Margaret Sutton, contralto, studies with Miss Jessie Mockel, New Castle musician, who is on the staff of the Chautauque Opera company as chorus director. Miss Sutton's home is in Macon, Ga. She made her debut with the Chautauque Opera company at Chautauque, N. Y.

These artists and the chorus will have as their accompanists two of New Castle's finest musicians, Edwin Lewis at the organ and Mrs. Richard Allen at the piano.

This is a sacred concert and is sponsored by the New Castle Ministerial Association.

Dr. A. Culmer Schultz, pastor of the First Methodist church, will give the invocation. J. Paul Graham, D.D., pastor of the Third U.P. church, will give the offertory prayer. Rev. Robert Mayo, will give the benediction.

The officers of the chorus are Miss Mildred Kelley, secretary; Miss Anna Dietterle, librarian; Miss Maude Mitchell, treasurer, and Miss Ruth Weir, accompanist to the chorus for rehearsals. The splendid work of these officers make the Music Club Chorus, with its fine director, Mrs. Caldwell, the outstanding organization which gives to New Castle some of its finest music.

SPEARHEADS OF ENEMY FORCES NEARING SEOUL

ported "quiet" and enemy pressure was said to be decreasing on the eastern front.

The official bulletin noted that the enemy was probing the Uijongbu area and said United Nations forces were adjusting their lines on the western and central fronts.

On the east-central front below the 15-mile long Hwachon reservoir enemy troops were thrown into suicidal "human sea wave" attacks.

A frontal dispatch said that Red troops of undetermined strength staged a pre-dawn attack Saturday on Allied positions east of Yanggu which lies southeast of the reservoir just north of the 38th Parallel.

21 Red Divisions
Allied intelligence officers identified 21 Chinese Communist divisions along a 35 to 40 mile stretch of the Hwachon reservoir front. This would normally mean a force of about 224,000 men. An Allied spokesman, however, pointed out that identification of the 21 divisions did not necessarily mean that they were at full strength on the front.

First reports on the enemy attack east of Yanggu indicated that it was contained by UN troops.

Elsewhere contact between infantry units was reported comparatively light.

Allied officers said the enemy was suffering appalling casualties in the southward thrust which was begun last Sunday. In the Tenth Corps sector alone, Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond, area commander, estimated that 16,000 casualties were inflicted on the Reds during the week.

Predicts Halt of Offensive
Almond praised the courage of his own troops and predicted the Red offensive would be halted.

In many cases, Allied officers coolly directed their artillery to blast onrushing Reds who were unmindful of casualties. Despite the increasing enemy threat to Seoul which admittedly has no military importance 155 mm Long Tom rifles in the capital area were pounding away at enemy hordes and the gun crews were apparently under no orders to withdraw. The Long Toms have a range of 15 miles.

The enemy advances below the 38th Parallel along a 110-mile front did not curtail Allied air activity. UN war planes struck hard at enemy troop columns and also flew in supplies of food and ammunition to Allied troops.

Planes of the U.S. Far East Air Forces were landing at Kimpo Airfield, 14 miles northwest of Seoul, with cargoes of food and ammunition. This was the first time Kimpo had been used to ferry in supplies since its recapture from Red troops early this year. Twelve-foot bomb craters in the field were repaired to make it operational.

Taking 'Route of Conquerors'
Kimpo lies below the Han river which skirts northwest from Seoul into the Yellow Sea. There has been no definite indication that the United Nations troops intend to defend this natural geographical line.

UN commanders beginning with General MacArthur and continuing on to his successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, have repeatedly said that the immediate object of the UN offensive is to kill Communists.

In their thrust southward toward Seoul on the western front, Communist troops were taking the classic "Route of the Conquerors"—the virtually indefensible Uijongbu valley. But they were paying a heavy cost in casualties.

UN troops with the aid of "artificial moonlight"—huge floodlights and flares from planes—picked off the suicidal Red waves with machine guns, machine gun and artillery fire.

The fall of Uijongbu was not considered militarily important. Like Seoul, it is just a cross road stop and has been wrecked and smashed to rubble by both Allied and enemy fire.

Give Up Yanggu
On the east-central front, the Allies gave up the town of Yanggu near the eastern tip of the 15-mile long Hwachon reservoir—but this too was considered a tactical move coldly calculated to reap more enemy casualties. Yanggu was the last major population center held by Allied forces north of the 38th Parallel.

Since the Reds began their all-out offensive last Sunday they have paid a heavy toll. A compilation of army, navy and air force casualty claims showed that 42,365 enemy troops were killed or wounded and 370 captured.

For war-ravaged Seoul it was the same old story. An estimated 400,000 civilians—caught in the maelstrom of war—were fleeing from the city which itself was a wreck but which they still called home.

Streets of the capital were deserted and refugees thronged the banks of the Han river waiting to board flimsy fishing boats which would ferry them to the comparative safety of the southern shore.

The Spartans' principal food was barley meal moistened with water and served without cooking.

CAMPAIGN FOR WESTMINSTER FUND STARTS

upon persons and companies interested in giving.

Attorney "Mike" Wherry of Grove City, an alumni of Westminster College, said "it's much easier to put a campaign over when the great middle class of people feel they have a stake in the institution. It builds a proprietary interest that is bound to bring success. This campaign can be put over and I believe it will."

President Speaks
Dr. Will W. Orr, president of the college, gave the group some facts and figures that were enlightening.

Said he, "this campaign is for $1,245,000 of which we have in hand in advance gifts, $52,683. The money will be divided as follows: Freeman Science Hall and Equipment, $350,000; Russell Hall Dormitory and furnishings, $500,000; Memorial Field House and athletic fields, $250,000; endowment, $100,000; president's home, $45,000.

"Part of this program is complete and a part under way. Through the designated gift of the J. S. Mack Foundation, the president's home is completed and occupied. The Memorial Field House has been started as has the Russell Hall dormitory.

"Westminster College is upon a firm foundation. Already there are 184 freshmen registrations for next year, more than we have ever had at this time of the college year. Lawrence County has 270 young men and women enrolled in the college.

"We firmly believe this campaign will succeed for Westminster is not afraid of the future. The college is almost 100 years of age. It has weathered four wars in which the United States engaged and it will weather the present world unrest."

Show Slides
Paul Campbell showed a set of slides of Westminster College past and present and gave a short running talk with the slides. The Westminster Quartet was introduced by Dr. Joseph Hokin, campaign director, and the four men gave a fine performance. Dr. James Ferguson of Bellevue, president of the board of trustees, asked the blessing upon the meal and dismissed the crowd with a benediction.

About 150 attended, campaign majors, captains and workers. If a simile might be permitted in this article, the meeting reminded this auditor of a well built automobile getting under way, smoothly, quickly and with the promise of plenty of power.

Notice
Members of Neshannock Post 315 of V.F.W. will meet at post rooms Sunday evening, April 29 at 7 p.m. They will proceed in a body to the DeCarbo Funeral Home where they will pay last honors to the departed comrade, Marcelli Oddi.

ROBT. VOGELER GIVEN LIBERTY BY REDS

berg he was wearing and kissed his wife almost desperately. Then his head slipped on to her shoulder and he wept.

His sons, Bobby and Billy, ran out, grabbing at their father's arms.

Family Cordoned Off
Police sent beforehand cordoned off the family in front of the home and then closed their private gates, enabling the Vogelers to go into the house out of the rain and away from assembled crowds.

Vogeler, who was sentenced on charges of espionage against Hungary, was released at the Austrian border where he also went with joy over his regained freedom.

Col. Grant Williams, who was assigned the job of "shielding" Vogeler from publicity, told waiting newsmen at the gate outside the house:

"I am amazed and shocked at how bad he looks. He cannot speak two consecutive sentences. I have seen no shell shock case in worse condition than he is."

Not Told He Was To Be Freed
Williams said Vogeler had not been told until 6:30 this morning that he was to be released.

He said Vogeler had told him he had been in a jail cell all of the time and had no contact with his British associate, Edgar Sanders, sentenced to a 13-year prison term on a similar espionage charge.

Williams said Vogeler does not know what happened to Sanders. Vogeler told officials and correspondents who greeted him:

"I have waited for this moment very, very long."

The 39-year-old Vogeler, originally sentenced to a term of 15 years, was released at 11:10 a.m. at the border point of Hegyeshalom, near Nickelsdorf.

He was met at the border by United States Consul General Arthur Tower of the Vienna Consulate and a staff official of the Vienna Legation, H. O. Ekern.

Talks To Newsmen
Pale and shaken, "and obviously in a weakened condition as a result of his 17 months in a communist cell, the 39-year-old Vogeler met with newsmen briefly a short time after his return home. He was bitter against his communist jailers, but answered all questions cautiously. He explained other lives than his own depended on what he might say.

One of the first questions reporters put to him was about his alleged "confession" of espionage before a Budapest court, and whether he was innocent.

The question brought a short, sarcastic laugh.

"No," he said, "not if you believe the trial. According to that, I am a combination of Dick Tracy and J. Edgar Hoover."

No Scraps of News
"For 17 months," Vogeler continued in an emotion-choked voice, "I did not hear a scrap of news, but I knew I could count on America to help."

Vogeler did not know until this morning that he was being freed. The Hungarian government announced it a week ago.

"Perhaps I did not live up to the American tradition under pressure," he said when asked again about the "confession."

Asked if this meant he was duped or tortured to make his so-called confession, Vogeler said: "I would rather not say. It was not only my own safety that was involved but that of others."

"I am not trying to be a prima donna. But for 17 months I have been in prison, thinking hour by hour of this reunion (with his blonde wife Lucille and his two sons, Bobby and Billy.

"I must have time to collect my thoughts. I cannot believe I am here. I am waiting to wake up."

Vogeler said he will return to the United States "just as quickly as I can."

YOUNG ARTHUR

Young Arthur MacArthur is enjoying an experience which comes to few Americans. He is having his first glimpse of his homeland at an age when he is able to appreciate its wonders and its glories and the amenities which make life in the United States pleasant and enviable.

Most of those who see it for the first time come as strangers in search of refuge. Young MacArthur came as the son of a fabulous hero, came as the member of a family which was to receive one of the most tumultuous welcomes in American history.

There can be no kid in America who would not have traded places with him, at least for a week. Of course, having Douglas MacArthur—the greatest living American—must be a bit wearing on a small boy, for small boys are constitutionally fidgety under ceremonial and pageantry.

But it must be thrilling to a 13-year-old to see his father acclaimed by his countrymen as no man was acclaimed before him. And when so tumultuous a homecoming included one's first glimpse of a big league baseball game, the circus, Manhattan Island and Washington, climaxing a swift flight half-way around the world, it would be easy to take.

But the boy who had changed places with Arthur could, after his magic week, return to his accustomed life, full of memories but happy to be back with the fellows on the block, back with his own pup and his own kid sister, his own ma and pa. Arthur cannot escape after a week. He will have to go through more of the same for a long time, and the crowds, the cheers, the speeches, the hotel suites and lack of privacy may become slightly trying.

And for Arthur the future must look rather formidable. All his life he is destined to endure comparison, all his life he must keep trying to be worthy of the proud name he bears.

CHARLES G. DAWES

Younger Americans cannot be expected to appreciate fully the character and personality of Charles Gates Dawes, vice president under Calvin Coolidge, who died in Chicago at the age of 85.

It was—to recall some history that seems very far away and long ago—in 1896 that he began to make himself felt in Republican politics. That year he organized the movement, in Illinois, to nominate McKinley for the presidency. Born in Marietta, O., he practiced law, briefly, in Lincoln, Neb., home of Bryan, who was the Democratic presidential candidate that year.

In a few years Dawes became comptroller of the currency. He made a great name for himself by the efficiency he introduced into that office, but resigned in 1902 to organize a bank in Chicago. He became a major in the army in World War I, and in France General Pershing made him chairman of a board to buy supplies for the U.S. Army, being promoted to brigadier general. He settled war claims against the U.S. and disposed of war surplus abroad.

It was natural that he should become the first director of the budget bureau when Congress created it, that later he should put forward the report on German reparations with the proposals that became known as the Dawes Plan, and that he should win second place on the Republican ticket in 1924.

Dawes was a plain-spoken man who talked with explosive vigor and smoked an underslung pipe. He was extremely able, he was honest and he had color. As ambassador to England he made the headlines by the typically American gesture of refusing to wear knee pants.

He was a lawyer, a banker, a public servant, a public utility operator, a politician, a soldier and a statesman. He was also a philanthropist, although he did not seek publicity for his activities in that field, and something of a musician besides. All in all, he was sturdy citizen of this republic.

DON'T WAIT FOR FIREMEN

One of the most important responsibilities of every householder is to guard against fire. Unless constant watch is maintained, waste is likely to accumulate and become scattered about in cellars and attics, creating fire hazards. Electric wiring, if neglected, may become a danger.

This is a good time to start a renovation program. Every one who tidies up his premises is doing something of benefit to himself and his neighbors. He is helping to safeguard the community against destruction of property. The time to put one's place of abode in ship-shape condition is before firemen visit it in response to an alarm.

Notwithstanding the importance of fire protection, the elimination of hazards in that respect is just part of the spring clean-up program which every householder should undertake. Yards as well as buildings need attention at this time of the year.

What worries Democrats is not the possibility that MacArthur may run for president next year, but the possibility that Truman will.

Nothing makes a fellow seem old like reading that Peaches Heenan, child-bride back in 1926, has just married her fifth husband.

A wet May for most of the U.S.A. is predicted by Washington's Weather Bureau meteorologists. Times sure look tough for an out-of-work rainmaker!

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Secretary Morrison's Paris Visit

British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison went to Paris in an effort to galvanize the Big Four deputies out of deadlock.

And his swift initiative in visiting the French capital is destined to write at least a minor chapter of current history.

For the British Laborite, new to his job and presumably not fully at home in the mazes of modern diplomacy, is stepping into an international dispute of unpredictable future at a pink marble palace in Paris.

He arrived at a moment when the cleavage between east and west on the whole question of tension throughout the world was more clearly delineated than ever before.

Charges Are Made

Philip C. Jessup, the representative of Secretary of State Dean Acheson at the prolonged and seemingly futile Paris meeting, had just finished accusing Soviet Russia of encouraging and subsidizing the Chinese Communist aggression in Korea.

Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union had replied in turn with his old charge that South Korea—and by this of course he meant the United States and the United Nations—was guilty of the initial act of aggression.

Just what Morrison hopes to achieve in his trip to Paris is open to speculation on virtually every ground.

No single well-informed person in any capital of the globe has attempted to understate the gravity of differences that prevail among the Big Four deputies in Paris.

Still Far Apart

They are in their eighth week of discussion at the pink mansion formerly owned by American-born Anna Gould, the duchess of Tallyrand, and presumably are as far apart on essential points at issue as when they began.

But the conference nevertheless has been held in session.

Whether out of hope or some basic reality is the question. The conference of deputies was assembled at the request of Soviet Russia. The western powers agreed to bids put forward by the Soviets at their so-called "peace conferences" in Prague and Warsaw and the immediate object was to set forth a platform of discussion.

It would merit a new meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers in person.

Almost Immediately, the talks

Almost immediately, the talks were resumed. The conference of deputies was assembled at the request of Soviet Russia. The western powers agreed to bids put forward by the Soviets at their so-called "peace conferences" in Prague and Warsaw and the immediate object was to set forth a platform of discussion.

bogged down in a morass of conflicting phraseology.

The attitude of the Western democracies was that the Big Four should concern itself chiefly with the causes for existing tension in Europe and the world. By implication and otherwise, these causes were identified as Soviet Russia's vast arms development program in the satellite nations of Eastern Europe.

Russians Counter

The Russians countered with attacks upon the West European defense program, the efforts of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to build up a continental army and the alleged "war-mongering" on the part of that hard-to-discover being labeled by Moscow as the "American capitalist."

Morrison has left London with his own labor government's cabinet crisis only partially resolved.

There will be speculation that he is attempting to shift the focus of attention from Britain's own problem at home to difficult issues in the larger international sphere. His Conservative opponents are certain to accuse him either of fishing in muddy waters or of pushing into affairs where he has yet had little experience.

Still and all, his sudden decision to fly to Paris and his incomplete plans to visit Washington in behalf of increased raw materials shipments must be of great significance.

If he can break the deadlock in Paris he will emerge automatically as a man of tall and great dimensions.

If in the breaking of this deadlock the world is set back on a path toward peace his role will have become a truly historic one.

In any case, the humbly-born successor to the late Ernest Bevin has taken a gamble that the entire world will watch with unbroken attention.

Washington Calling

WASHINGTON, April 28—Confronted with the dynamic of communism since 1917, the west has reacted with a series of errors that add up to something close to disaster. Those errors seem to me to have grown primarily out of repeated underestimation of the force of communism as an ideology, as a godless religion, as a system capturing the hopes and imagination of millions.

In the long tragedy of errors two stand out with glaring conspicuousness. And what is more they suggest that a third blunder arising from this same underestimation will be made if some powerful people have their way.

First Great Error

The first error lay in the effort of the British with a little help from the other Allies, to put down the Bolshevik revolution after the end of World War I. Intelligence reports indicated widespread disaffection in Russia directed at the little band of conspirators who were beginning to apply the techniques of a new tyranny.

These reports, which were substantially correct, led the British to believe that by backing certain Cossack generals and sending in an expeditionary force the revolution could be put down and the threat to the stability of all Europe brought to an end. But the means used for this objective were patently small. The expedition sent to Archangel was a mere handful of men and the Cossack generals were so discredited that they rallied little or no support behind them.

If the Western Allies had been prepared to send in a force of several hundred thousand trained and experienced men, the response of the Russian people might have been different and the shaky Bolshevik regime overturned. In the war weary west a force of that size and cost was out of the question. So the net result of the feeble and futile intervention was to leave a heritage of resentment and suspicion among the Bolsheviks and disillusion among those who had hoped to see the regime toppled over.

Second Error

The second fundamental error was also, in my opinion, due to underestimating the force of communism as an ideology fanatical bent on world conquest. The mistakes of Yalta and Potsdam at the end of World War II derived from Roosevelt's belief that Soviet Russia would be willing to live side by side with the Western powers in a peaceful world. It was in the hope of gaining Soviet confidence and cooperation that concessions were offered the Russians both in Europe and in Asia.

Roosevelt sincerely believed that he could win them around and only at the very end of his life was he at least partly brought to a sense of the realities by certain insulating messages from Stalin. The only small gain in this was that the rest of the world could not help but be convinced that America had done everything possible to get peaceful cooperation with the Soviet Union and that therefore the blame must be on the Russian side.

They Say

CHICAGO—General MacArthur—"I shall continue to fight against the greatest scourge of mankind, Communism, as long as God gives me the power to fight."

WASHINGTON—President Truman—"The world situation could explode at any time, and we must make every day count."

NEW YORK—Defense Mobilization Wilson, telling of seeing new American weapons—"I can only wish, too, that a certain mustachioed gentleman from Moscow had been with us. Perhaps he might then begin to cut his ambitions down to size."

Folks Of Fame

Norman Armour was a government official. He was born of American parents in Brighton, England, October 14, 1887. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1919 and served as embassy attaché in Paris, France, in the same post in Petrograd, Russia, in Brussels, Belgium, and as first secretary of the legation in The Hague, Netherlands, and in Montevideo, Uruguay. He was served as assistant to the undersecretary of State at Washington, D. C., and as minister to Haiti and Canada, and ambassador to Chile, Argentina and Spain. He was assistant secretary of state in Washington, D. C. until 1948, when he retired. His home address is Gladstone, N. J.

Bible Thought

Furthermore then we beseech you, brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Jesus, that as ye ought to walk and to please God, so ye would abound more and more. For we know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus.—1 Thessalonians 4:1, 2.

Bridge

I WANT YOU TO TALK ABOUT ANYTHING THAT ENTERS YOUR MIND, PARTICULARLY IF IT IS SOMETHING OF WHICH YOU ARE HEARTILY ASHAMED—SUCH AS LYING TO YOUR WIFE, MAKING FALSE INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS, CHEATING AT GOLF BY KICKING YOUR BALL INTO A BETTER LIE, WRITING ANONYMOUS LETTERS, PLAYING CANASTA—ANYTHING AT ALL, NO MATTER HOW OUTRAGEOUS

The first error lay in the effort of the British with a little help from the other Allies, to put down the Bolshevik revolution after the end of World War I. Intelligence reports indicated widespread disaffection in Russia directed at the little band of conspirators who were beginning to apply the techniques of a new tyranny.

These reports, which were substantially correct, led the British to believe that by backing certain Cossack generals and sending in an expeditionary force the revolution could be put down and the threat to the stability of all Europe brought to an end. But the means used for this objective were patently small. The expedition sent to Archangel was a mere handful of men and the Cossack generals were so discredited that they rallied little or no support behind them.

If the Western Allies had been prepared to send in a force of several hundred thousand trained and experienced men, the response of the Russian people might have been different and the shaky Bolshevik regime overturned. In the war weary west a force of that size and cost was out of the question. So the net result of the feeble and futile intervention was to leave a heritage of resentment and suspicion among the Bolsheviks and disillusion among those who had hoped to see the regime toppled over.

Second Error

The second fundamental error was also, in my opinion, due to underestimating the force of communism as an ideology fanatical bent on world conquest. The mistakes of Yalta and Potsdam at the end of World War II derived from Roosevelt's belief that Soviet Russia would be willing to live side by side with the Western powers in a peaceful world. It was in the hope of gaining Soviet confidence and cooperation that concessions were offered the Russians both in Europe and in Asia.

Roosevelt sincerely believed that he could win them around and only at the very end of his life was he at least partly brought to a sense of the realities by certain insulating messages from Stalin. The only small gain in this was that the rest of the world could not help but be convinced that America had done everything possible to get peaceful cooperation with the Soviet Union and that therefore the blame must be on the Russian side.

They Say

CHICAGO—General MacArthur—"I shall continue to fight against the greatest scourge of mankind, Communism, as long as God gives me the power to fight."

WASHINGTON—President Truman—"The world situation could explode at any time, and we must make every day count."

NEW YORK—Defense Mobilization Wilson, telling of seeing new American weapons—"I can only wish, too, that a certain mustachioed gentleman from Moscow had been with us. Perhaps he might then begin to cut his ambitions down to size."

Folks Of Fame

Norman Armour was a government official. He was born of American parents in Brighton, England, October 14, 1887. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1919 and served as embassy attaché in Paris, France, in the same post in Petrograd, Russia, in Brussels, Belgium, and as first secretary of the legation in The Hague, Netherlands, and in Montevideo, Uruguay. He was served as assistant to the undersecretary of State at Washington, D. C., and as minister to Haiti and Canada, and ambassador to Chile, Argentina and Spain. He was assistant secretary of state in Washington, D. C. until 1948, when he retired. His home address is Gladstone, N. J.

'King Lear' Proves Shock

By PAUL GALLICO

There is an interest to old plays revisited, and old tales re-examined in the light of what little knowledge one picks up in the course of living a generation, and I must say that I received a considerable shock when "King Lear" came to our town a little while ago and I dropped into the playhouse to check on how his Majesty, the unhappy King of Britain was getting on since I had last seen him, a little matter of forty years ago.

Now, you know how it is with a story, even if it's by Shakespeare, that you've read or seen a long time ago, when you were a kid. I remembered that Lear had a daughter by the name of Cordelia who was faithful to him when her two sisters and everybody else were giving him the works, that he is an old man nobody wants around and who gets hounded from pillar to post all over England and finally goes barmy and dies in the end, and that it was a pretty grim yarn with practically everybody giving up the ghost in the last few scenes. And I remember, when I was a kid and first read and saw Lear, I was mighty sorry for the old geezer and wept salty and juvenile tears over his plight and the faithful daughter who stood by him.

'Sure Takes The Pastry'

Well, sirs and ladies, as of 1951 I am compelled to report that of all the fatheaded, self-deluded, egotistical, old fuddy-duddies and non-stop boobs of all times, Brother Lear sure takes the pastry.

The curtain hadn't been lifted five minutes before I was seething with indignation at this prize sap who turns over his kingdom to his two worst enemies, disinherits his daughter and kicks his best pal and most loyal and devoted follower out of the country. Sympathy for him? Heck! If you've got any sense you've got to figure that not only does he deserve anything he has coming to him in spades doubled, but darned if he hasn't asked for it.

When the asbestos rises on this woolly-witted, conceited, choleric old nody, he is about to partition his kingdom three ways and hand it over to his two married daughters and their husbands, and his remaining unmarried daughter, and for what? . . . to shake all cares and business from our age." In times like that he's going on a vacation yet.

So he calls up his two married daughters and asks them how much they love him. This is stupid question No. 1. How much do you love me? Anyone who pulls that one is just begging for trouble. And he lets it. The two babes just put it on, and the old foot sits there happing it up. "Dearest than eyesight, space and liberty; beyond what can be valued, rich or rare." And a lot more bologna like that, and he can't get enough.

Well, then he asks Cordelia, and what is there left to say? She's a good kid and loves poppa in spite of the fact that he seems to have a bat or two in the upper steeple, but the other two have made such a monkey out of him and piled on the flattery so thick that all she can say, in effect, is, "Looka, Pop, I love ya, and what can you say after you say I love you?"

Short, Sweet, To The Point

This is short and sweet and to the point, but the old goat flies into a towering rage and disinherits her.

So then, finally somebody with some brains speaks up, namely Lear's pal, Kent, who tells him to get wise to himself, the two married babes have been filling him full of eyewash, while Cordie is true blue, a hundred per cent, and really Papa's little girl.

Does the old clown listen to reason? Not at all. He turns on the Duke of Kent and fires him out of the kingdom under pain of death. So help me, you can look this up, all this happens in the first page and a half.

And this is the mutton head that Shakespeare wants you to be sorry for when the noble boobs runs into trouble when he tries to visit the married daughters and they give him the works, just as everybody knew they would. And even so, I don't know that I blame the married daughters. Daddy comes calling with a hundred retainers who are noisy, drunk and quarrelsome, and Lear is a windy moron and no bargain himself.

And now listen how sweet old loving daddies puts the whammy on the oldest daughter. "Dry up in her the organs of increase and from her derivate body never spring a child to honour her! If she must teem, create her a child of spleen that it may live and be a thwart, disanatured torment to her! Let it stamp wrinkles in her brow of youth, with cadent frets fret channels in her cheeks, turn all her mother's pain and benefits to laughter and contempt that she may feel how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." Remember that line? Nice writing. But it is a father speaking to his daughter.

After that he wanders around for hours on the heath in the worst storm of the year which is where I really lost interest in him. Hadn't enough sense to get out of the rain.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

In the days of my youth Fourth of July and other holiday orators had a favorite theme.

It was about our glorious country and the flag, long may it wave, from the rock-bound coast of Maine to the sun-kissed shores of California.

Today our orators have a different theme, and not only the holiday speakers use it, but you can hear it at almost any occasion where people gather for food and froth.

The new theme is the bawling of America's state-of-the-union.

Almost every speaker nowadays has something to say about the state of the Union. It is the state of the Republic. It is the state of the Republic.

If it isn't Eisenhower, it is Marshall.

If it isn't liquor and dope, it is our ever-increasing immorality.

Visitors from all over the world go around the country looking for all the vice, the crime, the degeneracy which we so copiously advertise to the world.

Then, when they find out that we are a perfectly decent

Question For Tonight!

Arsen Armond Is Candidate

Seeks Nomination For Commissioner

ARSEN F. ARMOND

In announcing myself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Commissioner at the next Primaries, I feel that the individual voter has a right to know who I am and how I will perform the duties of that office. I was born in the City of New Castle in 1914. My family and I have lived here all my life and I attended its schools and graduated from New Castle Senior High school with the class of 1934.

I am married and the father of three children and reside at 1218 West State street, New Castle. I am employed as a Machinist at the United Engineering & Foundry company, and have held that position for over eight years. I have been active in civic affairs and have lent my time for the betterment of New Castle and Lawrence County.

Under the American system of government, no man is indispensable and rightly so. I believe in rotation of public officials. Experience teaches us that in National, State and Local Government that when a public official succeeds himself time and again in office that the public suffers. That the individual begins to treat the public funds as his own and wastes them to perpetuate himself in office. The voters of Lawrence County should see to it that no clique or public official should become so entrenched upon the public treasury by reason of long tenure in office, I believe in adequate and reasonable pensions for both private and public employees, but as I said before, I believe that rotation of Public Office is healthy—that no elected official should hold public office long enough to meet the requirements of any pension plan.

I will not join the Lawrence County Pension Plan, and if elected I know that the statute prescribes a salary for four years. If elected, I will be content with that salary set by law and will not endeavor to increase the salary by circumvention. The present Democratic incumbent is one of the sponsors of the Lawrence County Pension Plan. He joined it. The present incumbent needs this fourth term to grab a lifetime salary at the taxpayers expense.

I believe that tax economy must begin at home. Now is the time to cut expenditures and waste of public funds. The county has no roads and very few bridges under its jurisdiction. The last years have seen many burdens removed from the board of County Commissioners. In spite of this relief taxes have not been decreased. An examination of the individual taxpayer's tax receipt is proof in itself.

I pledge if elected that I will do all that is reasonably possible to cut the waste of Public Funds. I believe in pay-as-you-go. This practice is not new to me as I have followed it throughout my private life.

I respectfully solicit your support and influence at the coming Democratic Primaries.

Democratic Slate Named

Party Executive Committee Endorses Slate Of Candidates

Marking something of a departure in policy in this county, the Democratic Party Executive Committee on Friday night endorsed a slate of candidates for the primary election on July 24.

The meeting was attended by the ward and district chairmen who make up the Executive Committee with the county chairman, Theodore P. Gunnett, presiding and State Senator Samuel G. Neff, titular head of the party in this district attending in an advisory capacity.

The Slate
At the close of the meeting the following candidates had been endorsed and enter the primary fight with the blessing of the Executive Committee.

For Mayor, Dr. John A. Meehan.
For City Council, Carl Hauler and Lloyd McCormick.

For City Treasurer, Carmi G. Preston.
For City Controller, Mrs. James Usher.

For County Commissioner, James B. Kelso and Arsen F. Armond.
For Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts, Joseph Smith, of Ellwood City.

For County Controller, Richard A. Lasky, of Wampum.
For New Castle School Board, Andy Lasky, Patry James, and Sam Haddad.

No endorsement was made for the judgeship nor will there likely be it being believed the party will not endorse a candidate for this office. The post of county treasurer was also left open for the time with an endorsement likely later.

Not every endorsement came without discussion and some heat. A fight seems brewing in the Democratic primary for there are a number of candidates who expect to run in opposition to the slate selected Friday night.

Fourteen-year-old Boy Found Hanged

MT. LEBANON, Pa., April 28.—(INS)—The 14-year-old son of a Mt. Lebanon educator, who was found hanged in his home yesterday, was believed to have been playing a prank.

The parents found the boy, a ninth grade student, hanging by his belt in their home yesterday.

New Approach Necessary For Cancer Problem

Must Secure Full Financial Support In This Community

In announcing progress for the 1951 Cancer Crusade, Edwin O. Feass and Mrs. Blake H. Waldo, campaign co-chairmen of the drive here, said: "A new approach to the cancer control problem is necessary if success is to be achieved."

Mr. Feass explained that an all-out effort would be made this year to narrow the gap between actual needs and available funds.

"This means," Mr. Feass said, "that we must secure for cancer control the full potential of financial support in this community."

"We know this to be considerable, probably as high as twice what is usually given to the Cancer Crusade. I know this is a startling statement, but a careful study of people's giving habits support this contention."

Mrs. Waldo said people in this community are being asked to give to the 1951 Crusade with an entirely new point of view. "We are going to ask those who support cancer control to budget their contributions in proportion to the importance of cancer in their daily lives."

Strikes Regardless

"The fact that cancer strikes regardless of color, creed or financial standing, creates a tremendous potential of personal interest in the cancer problem. We hope that contributors will consider this fact in apportioning their gift. It might well be that cancer some day would be the number one problem of any individual or his family. A gift to combat this problem should be of equal concern."

The Crusade chairman explained that giving in this dimension would not only affect the contributor who supports every wor-

Red Casualties In Korea May Soon Pass Million Mark

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS)—The Defense Department predicted today that Communist casualties in Korea soon will pass the million mark to equal total U. S. losses during the four years of World War II.

A preliminary placed enemy casualties since the start of the Korean struggle at 846,000, with the toll mounting at a rate of more than 5,000 per day during the current Communist offensive.

United Nations forces including South Koreans have suffered fewer than 250,000 casualties, or one for every four they are believed to have inflicted through ground, air and sea action.

Search Is Urged For More Natural Gas Reserves In State

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's chief geologist today urged a search for additional natural gas reserves in the state to insure an adequate supply for increased industrial activity.

Most natural gas used in Pennsylvania is piped from Texas, Louisiana and other southern and southwestern areas, according to S. H. Cathcart, head of the bureau of topographic and geologic survey.

"An increase in industrial activity, occasioned by a defense or war program, will increase the demand for natural gas," he said.

"Whether imports can be increased sufficiently to meet such demand will depend largely upon whether steel can be made available for additional trunk line capacity," he explained.

"In the event that imports cannot be stepped up," Cathcart said, "Pennsylvania will need to produce more gas if the demand is to be met."

Cathcart reported that in 1949 only 39 per cent of the natural gas used in Pennsylvania was produced in the state.

Consumption amounted to more than 204 billion cubic feet, he said, while home state production was around 79 billion.

Search Is Urged For More Natural Gas Reserves In State

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's chief geologist today urged a search for additional natural gas reserves in the state to insure an adequate supply for increased industrial activity.

Most natural gas used in Pennsylvania is piped from Texas, Louisiana and other southern and southwestern areas, according to S. H. Cathcart, head of the bureau of topographic and geologic survey.

"An increase in industrial activity, occasioned by a defense or war program, will increase the demand for natural gas," he said.

"Whether imports can be increased sufficiently to meet such demand will depend largely upon whether steel can be made available for additional trunk line capacity," he explained.

"In the event that imports cannot be stepped up," Cathcart said, "Pennsylvania will need to produce more gas if the demand is to be met."

Cathcart reported that in 1949 only 39 per cent of the natural gas used in Pennsylvania was produced in the state.

Consumption amounted to more than 204 billion cubic feet, he said, while home state production was around 79 billion.

Believes Reds Have Now Gone Underground

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(INS)—FBI director J. Edgar Hoover believes that most of the Communist party in the United States has already gone underground. Hoover said that the communists have destroyed membership lists, set up underground bodies and hold clandestine meetings in an effort to avoid detection. Hoover gave a detailed account of how the party is operating now as a result of the recent conviction of 11 communist leaders in New York for conspiring to overthrow the government. His disclosures, made to the house appropriations committee, were made public Friday. Hoover said there were 43,217 communists in the United States on Dec. 31, 1950, plus some 387,000 sympathizers. Over 50 per cent of all Communist party members live in New York state, "principally" in the New York City area. They have a national committee of 13 members, of which 11 were convicted. Their cases are now on appeal.

Underground Committee
They have formed a "so-called underground committee which will function in the event their top functionaries are arrested and sent to prison or are taken into custody at time in a national emergency." This group is called "the alternate committee."

Hoover added: "Its membership is supposed to be quite secret."

The Communist party is divided into 30 district organizations, broken down into state, county, city, section and club units.

The smallest group consists of three or four persons. They meet frequently "in automobiles or out in the country, on some farm, or in some public park, so that they will not be identified."

Frequently they do not know each others' identity. They no longer have membership cards or membership lists. In the event the supreme court upholds the conviction of the 11 communist leaders, communist material will then be mimeographed and printed in "secret places in the underground" which have already been established.

Although they have a central headquarters in New York, protected by "a guard system" most of their activity is conducted from "secret places" the locations of which they feel the authorities are unaware.

State Federation Of Women's Clubs To Meet Monday

The Yorktowne hotel will be headquarters for the event. Some 1200 to 1500 delegates are expected to attend. Pre-convention entertainment has also been planned for the early arrivals. Mrs. Samuel J. McCartney of Narberth, Pa., program chairman, has arranged a program filled with interest and entertainment from the opening of the convention by the president of the federation, Mrs. Harry Schaaf of Erie, on Monday to the adjournment on Wednesday.

Maj. Gen. Willoughby Hopes To Soon Join Gen. MacArthur

TOKYO, April 28.—(INS)—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, long-time member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff, announced he has applied for retirement from the army to offer his services to his former commander.

Willoughby, a member of the party which accompanied MacArthur by PT-boat and airplane from the Bataan peninsula to Australia in 1942, has been the deposed supreme commander's intelligence officer for the past 13 years.

He told newsmen he hoped to join his former chief in the United States as soon as possible to offer his "modest" services.

In Washington a defense department spokesman said Willoughby has been ordered to go to Letterman General hospital in San Francisco. Top authorities denied he was being relieved of his duties in Tokyo.

Willoughby said he has applied for retirement "at my own discretion after over 40 years of service in the United States Army."

General headquarters in Tokyo also announced that Col. G. P. Welch of New York has replaced Col. Marion P. Echols as headquarters public information officer.

Echols, who served under MacArthur as public information spokesman for the United Nations and Far East commands, has been reassigned in the United States.

Search Under Way For Disabled Ship In Pacific Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—(INS)—Two Coast Guard cutters and Army and Navy surface craft were dispatched early today to search the fog-shrouded Pacific off the Golden Gate for a Japanese steamer believed to have hit a rock and punched a hole in its hull.

Exact position of the ship was doubtful and the number aboard was not known immediately.

The Coast Guard said radio direction finders were attempting to pick up further distress calls. The first were intercepted by R C A communications station KPH.

EXECUTION DELAYED

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS)—The execution of Dominick Daversa of Greensburg was set back by Gov. John S. Fine today from April 3 to July 2. The governor said he issued the respite because Daversa's counsel has petitioned the U. S. supreme court for a writ of certiorari to save Daversa from the electric chair.

Daversa was sentenced to death for shooting his wife to death on the main street of Greensburg in April, 1947.

F.B.I. Is Ready To Jail 14,000 Key Reds In U.S.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

(L. N. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The FBI is ready today to jail 14,000 key communists in the United States whenever a third world war appears imminent.

Names of the 14,000 all potential saboteurs, spies and fifth columnists, are now on file with the Justice Department, which considers them the most dangerous of more than 43,000 party members, whose names are also filed and some 430,000 members, sympathizers and fellow travelers.

Could Be Jailed

James M. McInerney, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department criminal division, told a House appropriations subcommittee that the key reds could be jailed without court action under provisions of the McCarran Subversive Control Law.

McInerney said the Justice Department has combed through the communists and sympathizers in the United States to classify and pinpoint the 14,000 most dangerous.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover gave the committee the estimates on the total number of party members and sympathizers.

Hoover said there were 43,217 communist party members on December 31, 1950, a drop of almost 10,000 during the past year.

McInerney revealed that immigration authorities plan to pick up 5,000 communists in the next year for deportation. Some doubt was expressed, however, whether all can be deported as not all countries will take them.

McInerney agreed at the suggestion of Rep. Flood (D) Pa., to make a study to determine whether the writ of habeas corpus could be suspended during a national emergency so that arrested communists could not obtain their freedom through court orders.

Will Be Honored On 100th Birthday

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS)—A retired Pennsylvania railroad track foreman who boasted a "no accident" record during his 46 years of service will be honored by the PRR on his 100th birthday anniversary May 1.

He is Silas E. Kuhn of Harrisburg, who began his career with the PRR as a middle division laborer in September, 1872. He retired in April, 1918.

The PRR announced plans to present Kuhn with a 40-year service pin on the occasion of his birthday and identified him as first centenarian in the railroad's history to be honored.

Kuhn's service came to the attention of the middle division superintendent, Park M. Rooper of Altoona, March 26, according to the PRR, when the aged man wrote about his service with the company.

Kuhn, who was born in Perry county, reported helping build the Rockville bridge across the Susquehanna river north of Harrisburg. The 48-span structure was completed in 1902.

U.M.T. Is Urged By Senator Jas. Duff

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—(INS)—Sen. James H. Duff (R) Pa., urged universal military training today as the only way for America to "preserve freedom and maintain world leadership."

The former Pennsylvania governor declared at award ceremonies at nearby Willow Grove naval air station that the alternative to UMT would be a regular armed strength of 4,000,000 men.

"If this nation were to maintain such an armed strength," Duff said, "it would cost the United States the prohibitive outlay of $40 billion a year."

Duff asserted that the U. S. "must have a sufficient reserve strength if we are to survive."

The senator spoke at ceremonies at which the air station received the navy's top award for efficiency.

Woman Is Victim In Harrisburg Fire

HARRISBURG, April 28.—(INS)—A 65-year-old blind woman is dead and 23 persons homeless today in the wake of a general alarm fire which swept through a row of four homes in Harrisburg's uptown district.

Mrs. Jennie Burles was found by firemen lying on the floor near a window she tried in vain to reach. Coroner S. J. Roberts said death was due to suffocation. The woman was burned slightly.

Fire inspectors have not determined the cause of the blaze which raged for two hours last night before firemen brought it under control.

St. Louis Cardinals Whitewash Cubs 3-0, Hold League Lead

Kiner Homers, But Bucs Lose

Giants Drop Ninth In Row To Braves

By HOWARD SIGMUND
NEW YORK, April 28.—Marty Marion, the St. Louis Cardinals' new manager, may not be able to keep them on top of the National League standings, but it is fun so long as it lasts.

The Redbirds, who fell into the second division last year, were supposed to be too old and tired to do any better this time. But there they are, in first place and riding a robust four-game winning streak. What makes it all the more impressive is the fact that, in those four victories, the opposition has scored a combined total of only two runs.

Whitewash Cubs 3-0
When Gerry Staley shut out the Chicago Cubs with six hits yesterday as the Cards won, 3 to 0, it was the second straight whitewashing by the Cardinals.

However, the real test will come next week when St. Louis invades the solid east.

Giants Lose Again
Yesterday, the Giants lost their ninth straight game as the Boston Braves scored five runs in the sixth inning to topple the New Yorkers, 7 to 3.

Brooklyn ended both its own three-game losing streak and Philadelphia's five-game winning streak with an 11 to 5 assault on Bubba Church and three other Whiz Kid hurlers.

Reds Top Bucs
In a night game, Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh, 7 to 5, with Elwell Blackwell getting credit for his second triumph. Ralph Kiner finally hit his first homer of the year for the Pirates, while Cincinnati's Grady Hatton and Joe Adcock socked roundtrippers.

Only two games were played in the American League. The Washington Senators broke a first-place tie with idle Cleveland by downing Philadelphia, 6 to 1.

Mel Parnell became the first Boston Red Sox hurler to last the route this season as he edged the New York Yankees, 4 to 3. Lou Boudreau, returning to the lineup after being out with a cold, singled home the winning run in the fifth inning.

Trap And Skeet Sunday Event
There will be a trap and skeet shoot Sunday at the Harbor Sportsman range, 2 to 6 o'clock, it was announced today by Paul Crable. All shooters are invited to participate.

Joe Colone, of Berwick, Pa., former Penn State football captain, is a graduate assistant at his alma mater.

Squad Rounding Into Condition

Lee Bickel Signed To Indian Contract

The New Castle Indians are completing two weeks of intensive spring training here today, and the word impressive creeps into the minds of those who have seen them.

The Indians have been favored by fairly decent weather this spring. The players are rounding into condition nicely.

Manager Milnar had his squad out at 10 o'clock this morning, and has announced a 1 o'clock workout for Sunday, with all fans who care to, invited to Flaherty Field to look the squad over, as they go through their paces.

Lee Bickel Signed
Business Manager Jack Lewis announced today the signing to a contract of young 18-year-old Lee Bickel of Warren, Ohio, a right-handed pitcher obtained from the Cleveland Indians farm school at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The youngster has shown into stuff in the early workouts to warrant a chance in organized ball this year. He reminds the writer of George Heller of Vandergrift a few years ago, except that Heller was a southpaw.

Jamestown Next Wednesday
Tony Lupien, former Boston Red Sox first sacker, will lead his Jamestown, N. Y. "Falcons" into New Castle next Wednesday evening for an exhibition game at 8 o'clock. The Class D Pony league team has been training down south and is en route home.

Lupien will be at first base for the Falcons next week. The game with Jamestown will be the first real test for the Indians with outside competition and will serve to whet their batting eyes for the league opener next Thursday at Butler.

Tickets On Sale
Lewis will be at the ball park 11 to 3 today and Sunday, to sell opening day tickets and all other types. Tickets can also be purchased at the Hotel New Penn at any time.

The Indians are intensifying their drive to have at least 3,000 in the ball park on opening day Sunday, May 6, which is just one week from tomorrow.

Meet The Indians

RUDOLPH JOHNSON, CLEVELAND, OHIO—Better known to his team-mates as "Rudy", this young negro outfield candidate on the New Castle Indians is destined to see a lot of service this summer, his first in organized baseball.

In 1949 Johnson played the outfield for a team in the Columbus, Ohio city league and batted a healthy .396 hitting 27 homers.

In 1950 he played at Eston, Saskatchewan, Canada, a semi-pro league and batted a very attractive .347 with 12 homers, 19 triples, and 31 doubles.

The 22-year-old 6-foot 185 pound boy's first love is baseball, and his hobby is "just sports", but in his younger days liked to fool around with model airplanes.

Johnson's ambition is to make good in organized baseball, and Manager Al Milnar will give him a chance to prove himself this year. Johnson will be used in right field. He bats right and throws right.

Work Under Way On Little League Baseball Park

Work on the site of New Castle's Little League field at Dean Park has begun and the grading is expected to be finished this week, it is reported by league officials.

At a meeting of the directors Thursday evening it was announced that construction of the stands is expected to begin in the very near future and the work on the rest of the field to begin shortly after that.

Bulldozer for the grading of the field was hauled from West Middlesex to New Castle and back again by a local trucker and will be hauled back again for the completion of the job—all free of charge.

Most of the work in the construction of the park is being done by local businessmen and workers. Letters have been sent out for financial assistance and persons wishing to help get the league started are urged to answer these as soon as possible.

It is expected that the league will be nearly self supporting once it gets well underway, but funds are needed to get it started.

Next meeting of the directors will be held Thursday, May 3, at the Court House. At that meeting bats and balls, and releases for parents to sign will be given out to the managers.

Adult help is still needed, it is reported by league officials, with persons particularly needed in the Eighth ward to help the managers in selection of the squad and teaching the youngsters.

The Little League is designed for boys from ages 8-12 with one team from each ward in the city.

Basketball Is Introduced To Sixth Graders

Complete Five Weeks Of Indoctrination In Public Schools

The sixth grade basketball indoctrination program introduced to the New Castle grade schools by senior high head coach, John Milanovich, and supervised by competent instructors, was last night completed after five weeks of fundamental training.

Basic shooting and passing drills were set up for the first two weeks and progressively the Milanovich high school system was shaped into recognizable play.

Ten drills in all were arranged in the post season plan and introduced the game to more than 100 students.

The program was sponsored jointly by the school athletic council and the city recreation board, and since considered successful, will be continued in future years.

Included in Milanovich tentative basketball plans for the future are elementary home room leagues for outdoor play in the summer, and for indoor play in the fall.

The instructors and schools utilized in the current sixth grade program were: Dick Muse and Bob Jackson, at Arthur McGill; Bill Cobau and Paul Hawkins, at Lincoln-Garfield; Don Reed, at Rose Avenue; Frank Reed, at Mahoningtown; and Bill Wallace, at Franklin.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

MET ANDY LASKY, former track, grid and basketball star of Ne-Ca-Hi, and later a coach at Connellsville high, several evenings ago and he recited a few facts concerning Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's football star. "Johnny was a natural athlete," said Andy. "He came from a family of athletes, and when I first glimpsed him in action, I knew he was going to hit the high spots. The fact remains," said Andy, "Johnny, in his Connellsville high days, was a better baseball player than griddle. I earnestly believe that were he to take up golf and learn the fundamentals, he could shine in that sport, also."

Lasky left his coaching and tutoring duties at Connellsville high to serve in the Navy. When he returned home, it was mid-winter and he did not resume his duties at Connellsville. He finally resigned and is now employed as an estimator by the United Engineering & Foundry company. Andy is one of several Polish Falcons who hope to develop some of the Falcon juniors into athletic stars. . . . Some fishermen are planning a trip to Canada for the wall-eye season which opens next month. . . . While at Harlansburg recently, met Jim Hodge, the septuagenarian outdoorsman, who, during the cold months grew a beard so heavy and long, it completely hides his face, excepting eyes and nose. Jim showed us a limb he cut off a tree in the woods. One limb grew in a tangled manner around another limb which caused him to remark: "This limb reminds me of Washington. It's snarled up."

While we were talking to him, his keen ears heard the crow of a ring-neck in a field where the corn yet stands. Jim is the "chap" who some years ago discovered a nest of blacksnakes and he killed them, following which it was reported they were pets of a neighbor. . . . Six Pennsylvania drivers are among 50 who have been singled out for special consideration by the U. S. Trotting association in the distribution of driver's licenses for 1951. They are Del Miller, Meadow Lands, near Pittsburgh, who posted 103 winning drives, and who also became the biggest single year money winner in trotting history by accumulating $306,813.71. It was the first time any driver had earned more than $185,000 in a single season: Levi Harner, Bloomsburg; Joe Hylan, Norristown; Lew Howell, Honesdale; F. L. Dufford, Butler, and Clair McMillen, Elderton.

First excursion to the Cleveland Indians-New York Yankees twin bill at Cleveland, will run June 3. . . . Yankees of the JB captured the Day Turn bowling league crown. They beat the Senators in the play-off. Individual high went to Oliver Duval, who tumbled 245 pins, and for three games, Stan Bukowski took the money with 664. . . . Fizz Rodenbaugh, former baseball player, and manager of the Moose team several years ago, was recently elected a trustee of the Moose. . . . West Penn Federation Beagle trials will be run today and Sunday at the Shenango Valley club's course near Volant. . . . Ex-basketball players of Wampum high will hold their annual dinner this evening near Wampum. . . . Several nights ago we discussed football with Joe Gendler, who played the backfield for Ne-Ca-Hi when Phil Bridenbaugh's gridders humbled Paul Brown's Massillon team 7-0, in 1937. Joe is vitally interested in football. Tony Ostrosky who also played on the team is with the United Engineering & Foundry. The next year Massillon battered Ne-Ca-Hi, 52-7. . . . ## Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, April 28.—(INS)—Grandma knew that the way to be permanently-perfumed was to tuck a sachet in her bodice.

Today, chemistry and chic are being fused in a new type of bra that will accomplish the same purpose with less fuss and fewer fumes!

The designer for Peter Pan lingerie has developed a "secret scenter" brassiere with a net pocket in center front to hold a two-months' supply of exotic aroma. The perfume "supply" comes in the form of a tiny pellet, concealed by DuPont and guaranteed not only to exude its fragrance but also to neutralize the effects of other odors.

Three types of pellets are offered: "scarlet," with a sultry fragrance; "indigo" with a sophisticated aroma, and "white gold," a floral bouquet.

They're included in the price of nylon taffeta or broadcloth bras. And when their essence fades after approximately two months' wear, refill pellets may be purchased at 75 cents each.

"This," says the designer, "is daintiness on a budget!"

Nationalization Of Iran's Oil Industry
Is Recommended

TEHRAN, April 28.—(INS)—Immediate nationalization of Iran's oil industry was recommended today by the parliamentary oil committee at the end of a special session.

Parliament on March 15 approved an initial proposal by the committee for nationalization but left to the committee the responsibility for working out details and making a decision on when direct action should be taken to eliminate foreign interests.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil company, largely owned by the British, operates the rich fields in the Middle Eastern nation.

The resolution approved by the committee unanimously will be submitted to Parliament tomorrow. If it is approved, as expected, only the sanction of the Iranian Senate is needed for the measure to become law.

In the future stirred up by the initial steps toward nationalization, Iran gives assurances to Britain that the oil would continue to be made available to her for British fleet necessities.

Unexpected Expedition

Have you ever wakened on a Saturday or Sunday to find that kind of a day that should be used only for some sort of outdoor fun? Perhaps you and the family had not planned to do anything special. But the day seems just too good to be wasted!

Often, a high point in family fun can be found in an unexpected expedition. Given a pleasant day, a spontaneous suggestion to run away from the usual routine, and enthusiastic cooperation in getting a lunch thrown together, it's hard to imagine anything that will be more fun.

And, of course, there are all sorts of possibilities. Perhaps it will be a breakfast of bacon and eggs cooked on a rock overlooking the lake nearby. Or even a backyard picnic in which one experiments with a new outdoor cooking recipe. A trip to the city park, if there's one in your town, can be fun, too.

Another approach that some families have liked is to have one of its members decide what the day's activities will be. An unexpected plan can have a certain tang that a thoroughly scheduled expedition may lack. Yes, there's a lot of fun to be found in these spontaneous plans or in the surprise expedition.

Oppose Income Tax;
Propose Sales Tax

PITTSBURGH, April 28.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce Friday denounced the proposed income tax of Gov. John S. Fine and urged instead a sales tax, calling it "the only practical and equitable means of solving the state's fiscal problems."

The Chamber said it opposes the income tax because it would be another payroll deduction and it would be too easy to increase.

The group had this to say about a sales tax:

"A sales tax definitely tends to make the average citizen tax conscious."
